The Letter of Recommendation -Umay Şamlı-

30/07/2024, Ankara

As a teaching professor in The Department of Software Engineering at TED University, I have known Umay for four years.

The most distinctive feature that caught my attention during this period was that he came to his classes on time and delivered the assignments on time and correctly. In this respect, I can say that he has been doing his time management properly, which has been seen as an important skill recently.

The fact that he performs the assigned duties other than homework in a timely and appropriate manner stands out as a reassuring aspect of Umay. Whatever work he does, he tries to do it thoroughly and with dedication. I am sure that in the future Umay will try to change something for the better and will influence the people around him in a positive way.

His perfect communication ability is an indicator that he can overcome the problems he may encounter in teamwork. With his harmonious approach and persuasion, he displays a unique leadership for teamwork.

Considering all this, I strongly recommend him for this admission.
